It took a carefree time cadikovska age. Your child is older and ahead of him is long and not exactly simple school period. In anticipation of the school concerned not only first essays for sale graders, but children older. Even more worried parents. They have a large number of questions and doubts. How will school their child? You will find the child there is support and understanding? Whether he will cope with the challenging school curriculum? Why do many children soon lose the desire to go to school. The latter question is particularly alarming to parents. He will be the focus of this article.

10 reasons for children's reluctance to go to school

1. Children first crossed the threshold of the school, very afraid of his teacher. This fear is growing, due to the strict suggestions of the teachers.
2. Then the fear of receiving bad grades, which can punish the parents, and even to call to the school Director. Unfortunately, in this institution about the identity of the judge only received the points, the inner world of the child teachers are not interested in.
3. Fear is present in many children. Although only making mistakes, you can learn and move forward. In school mistakes are not welcome.
4. Some children don't want to go to school due to constant ridicule from their classmates. Any deviations in the actions of the child from the General rules are with the connivance of the teacher, to a series of ridicule. Teachers themselves emphasize and condemn the wrong done the work of a child, causing a storm of mocking the emotions of others of their children.
5. Popular tests recommended in schooling, also affect a child's desire to get an education. Often children try to guess the correct answer to get a good grade. My opinion in tests they can not tell, thus the interest in learning is lost.
6. Excessive amount of homework discourages any desire to learn. Meanwhile, there is some opinion that these tasks do not affect the child's academic performance.
7. According to the school rules the child does not need to be different from their classmates. Here there is a ban on the uniqueness of the individual, which lasts throughout the school years, and in consequence, retained in adult life.
8. Everyone wants to be happy. How to achieve this, unfortunately, does not teach school. Although it is necessary in the future lives of children.
9. Often, school lessons are not interesting and the children they miss. Not every teacher can captivate and motivate children as its subject.
10. Throughout the school years, children must prepare for the transition to adulthood. However, the school is absolutely not given the time. Not here to teach you how to earn money, can you tell me how to increase their income. No school lesson about understanding and ability to communicate. But in adult life it is the most important.

How to adapt to a child at school?

1. Don't limit a child's life at the school. He has his interests and outside its walls.
2. Do not be afraid of mistakes, without them it is impossible to obtain invaluable experience.
3. Should develop communication skill by participating in contests, shows or just reading poems in class.
4. Learn to make money in the school years. It will give confidence and will help in later life.
5. Not like school?- search another educational institution. Parents should understand the child and to meet such desires.
6. Kids need to develop self-confidence. It will help him adapt to school and deal with all school problems.
